Message from the Schools of Sanctuary Coordinator

On behalf of everyone at Bradford City of Sanctuary, I would like to congratulate your whole school community on achieving your School of Sanctuary award.

This award is in recognition of the culture of kindness and welcome you all live by at St Joseph's and the work you have done throughout school to understand the experiences of people who are refugees.

It has been wonderful to see examples of your work and hear about the things you have been doing in school and I hope that my colleagues and I will be able to come into school very soon to see your work and talk to you about what you have been learning.

I would also like to say a very big thank you to all the children who worked on the beautiful artwork we have used to celebrate Refugee Week across Bradford. You are all very talented artists and have given people who have gone to see the exhibition a lot to think about. You are all brilliant Bradford artists, just like David Hockney!

Achieving the School of Sanctuary award is a cause for celebration and as soon as is allowed, I will be organising events for you to come together with other Sanctuary schools and our friends at the University of Bradford to celebrate all the great work you have been doing.

I will also be sharing ideas and opportunities for other projects throughout the year, but I always want to hear more about your work and what you are doing. If you come across books, cartoons, games or anything you think helps us all learning more about refugees and why it's important to offer a kind welcome to all, then please do let me know!

Sarah, Schools of Sanctuary Coordinator.
